

Rev. Charles Grant, joint curacy of Hampstead from 1793, and proprietor of the Chapel in Vell Walk for about 30 years, says Park, who notes he was 'punctual and cheerful ... His knowledge of the inferior orders of the parishioners was peculiarly extensive and accurate, and rendered him highly useful in a parish overflowing with poor.' (pp 233-4)

He lived in Frognaal (1805-7 Directories)
