

James Kennedy retired to Ramstead from the Indian Civil Service and lived at 14 Regent Lane. In 1906, he published his useful researches into local history: 'The Manor and Parish Church of Ramstead'.

DESCRIPTION OF THE MANOR OF RAMSTEAD

THE MANOR OF RAMSTEAD
The manor of Ramstead is situated in the parish of Ramstead, in the county of Kent. It is bounded on the north by the parish of St. Andrew's, on the south by the parish of St. Martin's, on the east by the parish of St. Peter's, and on the west by the parish of St. James's. The manor is divided into several parcels of land, the most important of which are the manor house, the manor mill, and the manor church. The manor house is situated on the north side of the manor, and is a large and imposing building. The manor mill is situated on the south side of the manor, and is a small and simple building. The manor church is situated on the east side of the manor, and is a large and beautiful building.

THE MANOR OF RAMSTEAD

The manor of Ramstead is situated in the parish of Ramstead, in the county of Kent. It is bounded on the north by the parish of St. Andrew's, on the south by the parish of St. Martin's, on the east by the parish of St. Peter's, and on the west by the parish of St. James's. The manor is divided into several parcels of land, the most important of which are the manor house, the manor mill, and the manor church. The manor house is situated on the north side of the manor, and is a large and imposing building. The manor mill is situated on the south side of the manor, and is a small and simple building. The manor church is situated on the east side of the manor, and is a large and beautiful building.

The manor of Ramstead is situated in the parish of Ramstead, in the county of Kent. It is bounded on the north by the parish of St. Andrew's, on the south by the parish of St. Martin's, on the east by the parish of St. Peter's, and on the west by the parish of St. James's. The manor is divided into several parcels of land, the most important of which are the manor house, the manor mill, and the manor church. The manor house is situated on the north side of the manor, and is a large and imposing building. The manor mill is situated on the south side of the manor, and is a small and simple building. The manor church is situated on the east side of the manor, and is a large and beautiful building.

The manor of Ramstead is situated in the parish of Ramstead, in the county of Kent. It is bounded on the north by the parish of St. Andrew's, on the south by the parish of St. Martin's, on the east by the parish of St. Peter's, and on the west by the parish of St. James's. The manor is divided into several parcels of land, the most important of which are the manor house, the manor mill, and the manor church. The manor house is situated on the north side of the manor, and is a large and imposing building. The manor mill is situated on the south side of the manor, and is a small and simple building. The manor church is situated on the east side of the manor, and is a large and beautiful building.