

The Platt family lived at Childs Hill House, on the corner of Platts Lane, which was given this name after them about 1830. BARRATT, II, p. 273, gives picture of the house.

DNB note on Thomas Pell Platt: (1798-1852), orientalist; fellow, Trinity College, Cambridge, 1820; MA 1822; acted for some years as librarian of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and (c. 1825) collated for the society the Ethiopic texts of the New Testament; also prepared an edition of the Syriac gospels, 1849, and an Amharic version of the Bible, 1844.