

Wraith ministered to the Methodists from c. 1795 until death, i.e. taking over about a dozen years after the Countess of Huntingdon severed her connexion.

Fark, p. 239, says the congregation met in 'some kind of shed near the site of the present chapel', the latter presumably being in Little Church Row (see Streets of Hampstead).